RAILWAY FAKATION

Hearing on the Subject at the Capitol

ASSESSOR TRIMBLE'S STATEMENTS

The Present Method of Assessment Explained. 1

SOME QUESTIONS ASKED

House District committee resumed consideration this morning of Representative Odell's bill relating to taxation of street railways, which was published in The Star yesterday.

Mr. Trimble, the assessor of taxes of the District, appeared before the committee by request of Chairman Babcock.

Mr. Odell's Explanation. Mr. Odell explained the probable effect of the bill. The first proposition in the bill, he said, is to tax the franchises of street railways on the basis of the value of the stock. It is assumed that a stock which pays 6 per is assumed that a stock which pays 6 per cent dividends is supposed to be at par in value, and stocks paying less are held to be below par. That is the plan in operation under the New York law, of which his bill is a copy. The tax is to be levied on the value of the stock at the time it is appraised for taxation. The bill provides for the taxation of common stock and preferred stock in case two kinds are issued by the railroad.

Mr. Odell said he had found one railway here, incorporated under the laws of an-here, incorporated under the laws of an-other state, which has paid no tax to the District. His bill would correct this dis-Real and Personal Property.

Proceeding to the second section of the bill, which requires the real and personal property of the street railways to be assessed upon the same basis as all city property, in addition to the franchise tax mentioned above, Mr. Odell said this would increase the taxation of the Metropolitan and Columbia lines, which pay a sum equal only to 4 per cent of the year's receipts, while the Capital Traction Company pays the 4 per cent and the realty tax also. Mr. Nathaniel Wilson, representing the Columbia railway, made a computation for the committee of the probable effect of the Odell bill upon that road. The result was that the company would pay $9,147 under the Odell bill, while it pays $5,920 under the present law.

The difference, he said, was accounted for by the fact that the Columbia stock is now up to 70, owing to unusual circumstances.

If normal conditions are restored and the stock goes down, the taxation under the Odell bill would fall. Substantially, there would be no great difference between the Present Method of Taxation. Assessor Trimble then testified to the method of railway taxation. He said the roads operating under the new law pay 4 per cent on their gross receipts. Those roads governed by the did law were taxed on their capital stock. The assessor had no means of arriving at the value of the no means of arriving at the value of the stock, and so he had computed it on a basis which would be equivalent to 4 per cent of the capital stock.

"Don't you think," asked Mr. Curtis, "that the same plan of taxation should apply to all roads?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Trimble, "I think the tax should be at the rate of 4 yes cent on tax should be at the rate of 4 per cent on the gross earnings of all roads."

At this point the discussion drifted away to the subject of general taxation in the District.

Mr. King Expresses Surprise. Mr. King expressed surprise that the personal property returned for taxation in the District had fallen in recent years from $16,000,000 to $11,000,000.

Mr. Trimble said it was probably due to the fact that the tax office has to rely to a large extent on voluntary returns, as it does not have the machinery to obtain acister White the government explained that Mr. King said he thought there ought to be $50,000,000 worth of assessable personal property in the District of Columbia. "Do you think the present method of as sessment and taxation a proper one?" "It might be simplified," responded Mr.

"Is it not true that 'kissing goes by fa-or' in this District with regard to taxa-"I am not aware that such is the case."

"Well, if more money were raised by the city," said Mr. King, "would not the government have to pay less?"

"Oh, no: the government only pays onehalf the expenses, and never makes up deficiency.

The Anacostia Road. Mr. Griswold of the Anacostia road gave the committee some facts in connection with the taxation of that road. It was decided to hold a meeting of the District committee next Tuesday at 10 o'clock to give a hearing on the proposed extensions of the Capital Traction and Metatrophics.

Apprehension of Two Young Men on Charges of Assault.

LODGED IN JAIL.

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star. ROCKVILLE, February 5, 1898. Sheriff Horton G. Thompson arrived here yesterday evening, having in charge Collie and Roland Coe, two young men formerly of Loudoun county, Va., who are charged with assault and disturbing a religious meeting. The offense charged occurred at Hunting Hill Union Church the 6th of December, 1896. Rev. Wm. D. Beall of Gaithersburg was preaching when he and the congregation were disturbed by the beating of a tambourine and the talking by beating of a tambourine and the talking by the Coes and a youth named Graff. The preacher reproved the trio and asked them to behave themselves or leave the house. This they declined to do, and at the close of the services as Mr. Beall was descending from the pulpit, he was confronted by the three and violently assaulted and received a severe blow in the face. Every effort was made to arrest the parties, but they had made their escape across the Potomac was made to arrest the parties, but they had made their escape across the Potomac during the night following the assault. They were indicted by the grand jury at the March term of the circuit court in 1897, and since that date nothing was known of their whereabouts until a few days ago, when information was received that they were in custody at Oxford, N. Y. Sheriff Thompson immediately procured the necessary requisition papers, and on Tuesday left for Oxford. Upon the arrival of the prisoners they were taken directly from the railroad station to the county jail, where they will likely remain until the March term of court unless released on ball. The youth, Graff, connected with the affair, remained in the rounty, and upon trial was acquitted, the evidence of the minister and others, shewing that he did not commit the assault.
